

Introduction

Ladies and Gentlemen,

As we all know, one of life's certainties is that nothing stays the same; that things change and life doesn't always turn out as planned. How we respond to these changes, or better yet, how we see them in the first place, determines where we go.

Our guest this [morning/ afternoon/ evening] has made it his mission to help you change the way you see the world, and your place in it.

Please join me in giving a warm welcome to – WARREN MACDONALD!

(Note to introducer) Thanks in advance for introducing me. I like to keep my introduction brief so that the story can unfold throughout the presentation. Thanks again for your help.

~Also~

Following my presentation, please mention that I will be signing copies of my book "A Test of Will" at the table at the back of the room (or wherever has been designated). Thanks again!